NOT ENOUGH TO GO AROUND AT THE NEW AMSTERDAM.

Fifty Cent Seats, Besides, Were Not Good for Hats Unless You Helped Yourself Se You Did, if You Could-Police Quell Rushes for the Free Millinery. Yesterday was the day set for the distribution of souvenir hats (by permission of Henry W. Savage) at the matines of "The Merry Widow" at the New Amsterdam Theatre; and without any permission of Mr. Savage whatever, but to the delight of the press agent, who had foreseen it, there was a riot which left behind it a playhouse strewn with back hair, puffs, baby pins and other things that come off easily.

The souvenir hats were 28 inches in diameter, and each was enclosed in a regular hat:box. The management didn't think that the fifty cent seats deserved souvenirs and they did think that there would be some men in the audience. So they bought 1,200 Charlotte Corday hats and thought it would be enough. Then they made over the lounging room in the rear of the main floor into a hat depot, and put across the front of it a long counter, behind which were stationed a lot of people to give out hats in an orderly, Henry W. Savage man-ner. But that wasn't exactly what hap-

As it turned out, there were something like 1,600 women in the house. Of course, there wouldn't be a chance for the worner if they got the hats on their arrival co get them into the seats and still let ererybody at the door, which were re seemable after the last curtain, each calling for a hat. And the management expected the women

At the last intermission-just before the Maxim's scene—a number of women decided that they would prefer to stand during the remainder, of the show. These filled up the spa, behind the seats in good shape. And then one or two of these happened to thirk that they had to get home early and resented their coupons. Manager Dougars and his corps of ushers and girls behind the counter wanted to please and gave out the one or two hats, and other women who were standing near happened to think that they had to get home early too and more hats were given out, and then those down front heard everybody getting hats and started out to get theirs—all this long before the curtain fell.

By the time Sonia and the Prince left Maxim's in the yellow spot there was more doing at the back of the theatre than on the stage, and the minute the curtain began to come down everybody who was not already there made a rush for the bargain counter. The bread line absolutely refused to form—they came from all directions and all wanted to get there first. There was one poor, lonely, special officer on the job, and it wasn't a minute before he was entirely surrounded by women. Mr. Savage himself took a look in and remembered he had an engagement downtown. The press agent went to the Knickerbocker for a rickey.

When the thoors were opened for people to go suff the women in the gallery, who had theard anything about the coupon reaket and who thought that they were in on the melon cutting as well as their downstairs sisters, all came down, around and into the theatre and joined the merry party. The counter with its plee of hat boxes was knocked over and a let of women thought it made a good chance to get a hat without waiting any longer and everybody went into the scrimmage. So four policemen were called in to stem the tide of women and save what coud be saved of the hats.

After a coupon had been exchanged for a het it was put in a little box on the Maxim's scene a number of women decided that they would prefer to stand during the

of the hats.

After a coupon had been exchanged for a hat it was put in a little box on the counter. When the counter went over this box went too and the coupons were scattered over the floor. So those who had received no coupons went after them, and the ushers went after the coupons too, so that the women wouldn't get them, and that was another rough house.

At 6.30 there were groups of women

At 6:30 there were groups of women standing on the street in front and clear over to Broadway hatless, who had come that way, intending to put the new hats on and not have any old one to carry. They were saying nice things about the press agent.

WHITE GIRL KIDNAPPED.

According to Her Story, by a Negro-Three Arrests Made. Warren Nelson, a negro, 23 years of age, who says he is a waiter, was looked up at Police Headquarters last night charged with kidnapping Gussie Kraus, a Hungarian of 17 years, who lives with her sister, Mrs. Joseph Abramovitz, at 214 East Third street. With Nelson were arrested his wife Louise, who appears to be white, and Bessie Stevens, a negress, who keeps a house in West 135th street. The two women also were charged with kidnapping. The Kraus girl was a waitress in a restaurant at 452 Lenox avenue. There Nelson met her. She says that on Sunday he induced her to take a walk with him and when in front of the West 135th street house grabbed her and drew her into the place, threatening to kill her if she made an outery. She says that he kept her looked up for several days and that she got away by finding a key to the door and escaping when she was not watched.

All the prisoners deny the charges against them. They say they did not compel

All the prisoners deny the charges against them. They say they did not compel the girl to come to the house or stay with them. They told the police that they took the girl to Coney Island one night and to the theatre the next.

She appears to be little more than an overgrown and badly frightened child. When telling her story last night she could not mention the negro without crying. She also begged the police several times not to let him get at her again.

The night court pen accommodates only twenty-five women and forty men comfortably. These separate quarters were soon filled and then the prisoners were soon filled and then the prisoners were crowded into the corridor until that was packed too. The heat and suffocation soon got too much for the women, a number of whom began to complain of feeling sick.

Magistrate Breen ran off a hundred cases in the first hour. Warden Mallon of the prison extended the hospitality of about 100 cells he had that weren't working, and when these were nut into recuisition the when these were put into requisition the pressure on the regular pen was eased up considerably. Toward midnight most of the dates had been disposed of and the newcomers were fewer.

Owing to circumstances over which he had no control Secretary Tart was unable to scoopt the invitation conveyed to him by Francis I Lowe on behalf of the National Republican Club of The Bronx to review the monster Lilliputian parade which took place yesterday afternoon under the auspices of that organization.

Mr. Lowe took a solemn affidavit just before he went home to dinner that the above mentioned parade was a mile and a half long. In fact the 2,500 children and 100 fathers and 400 mothers with baby carriages and 500 mothers without baby carriages and 165 elder sisters and 27 grandmothers who made up the line of march were instructed to walk far enough apart to show the Democrats and the Socialists and the Prohibitionists and the flughes boomers what a properly constructed administration association could do in the way of spreading itself, and not a parader beat the job.

The Roosevelt-Taft-Parsons adherents (for so Mr. Lowe defined them) gathered in McKinley Square, whence they proceeded by way of Third and Clinton avenues to the 174th street entrance of Crotona Park.

Just behind the band rode Arthur Meyer of 381 Westchester avenue on a bucking bronco, and after him walked Mrs. J. M. Donohue and Mrs. John O'Grady and Mrs. Smyth and Mary Smyth and Joseph Smyth and Francis Lowe.

Eight of the tallest members held aloft with arms that pride rendered immune from fatigue a transparency twelve feet in length by two in width emblazoned with the legend "Me for Taft."

Lots and lots of the rank and file wore caps which conveyed to interested spectators the information, in large blue letters, that the country in general and the National Republican Club of The Bronx looked to

It goes without saying that the commissary wagons were in commission to the extent of 1,000 quarts of pink and white ice cream, 1,800 quarts of milk, hundreds and hundreds of dozens of sweet cakes with frosting on and thousands of bags of candy. Furthermore, even a political picnic isn't a picnic at all unless due attention is given to the national game, so the baseball nine to the national game, so the baseball nine whose patron saint is the Holy Augustine pitted itself against another which has put itself under the protection of Saint Thomas Aquinas, and the former beat the latter 10

MISS SINGER DIED AT SEA. lother and Brother Were Bringing Her

Home From a German Cure. Miss Ada Singer, daughter of the Spanish Consul at Chicago, Berthold Singer, died of tuberculosis on Tuesday in midocean aboard the Hamburg-American liner Kaiserin Auguste Victoria. She had been under treatment in a sanitarium in Germany and when it became apparent that she would not get well her mother and brother decided to bring her home. She was taken aboard the ship on a stretcher at Cherbourg and attended by a special nurse and the ship's physician. Her father got a wireless message from the liner on Wednesday telling of her death and he came here and went down in a revenue cutter yesterday morning, greeting his wife at the ship's gangway. The body will be taken to Chicago.

Among the Kaiserin's passengers were Miss Carolina Amari of Rome and Miss Florence Colgate of this city, founders of the Scuola d'Industria Italiana of New York who have been abroad in the interests of the society: Mr. and Mrs. John Markle, Herr Plehn, secretary of the German Embassy at Washington; Al Hayman, Lieut. William Hamilton Merritt, Charles G. Coodrich and Clarence Phelps Dodge.

New Device to Test Strength of Ammunition Belts.

WASHINGTON, June 13 .- A unique device for testing the strength and durability of ammunition belts has been devised by ordnance experts of the army and is now in operation at the army arsenal at Rock Island, Ill. It consists of a dummy soldier arranged on machinery so that he is jolted both up and down and sideways about 100,000 times in every twenty-four hours. He is wearing three different styles of cartridge belt which are being tested. The belts con-tain the regular service ammunition, and it is the intention of the Department to keep the dummy soldier on the hike until some of the sharp nosed steel bullets have cut through their pockets in the ammunition streets here to-day is wearing a tag by a string from his buttonhole. It is a plain cardboard tag such as the express com-panies use, and it does not add to the appearance of one's dress, but it saves money and a holdup to wear it. This is tag day in Washington. Tag day is a device to squeeze dimes and quarters out of every pedestrian for the benefit of a castoff children's playground. It was a pretty mean man who would not hand out a dime at least once for a tag. It was an excessively high toned or reckless one who would not wear it. No dime, no tag. No tag, no peace. The holdup of wearers of untagged coats occurred every twenty-five feet.

Children peddled the tags in all parts of Children peddled the tags in all parts of the city, and no man escaped. There were store tags, house tags, automobile tags, cab tags and personal tags and a five dollar tag that made the owner immune from attack in all quarters. The store tag cost a dollar, likewise the house tag. Every woman was held up in every store, and it cost her a dollar to continue her round of shopping without further solicitation.

President Roosevelt came across for a five dollar tag that allowed him to take his customary drive on horseback without being held up at the bridge. Attorney-General Bonaparte was tagged twice. A beautiful young woman held him boldly in front of the White House yesterday, which was a day in advance of official time for the free-booting. He dug up a round dollar cheerfully and said it was worth it. But he forgot the tag when he sauntered out to-day, and he had to shell out again. This time it was not worth it, the bandit being a street urchin.

it was not worth it, the bandit being a street urchin.
Young Quentin Roosevelt made a street record. He stood in front of his school house and took $9.20 in an hour pedding ten cent tags. Then he moved down to the Mall before the White House, where he suspected money would come in bigger pieces, but he was lashed to the mast there in no time after two automobiles drove up filled with daintily clad girls, who piled out and worked the thoroughtare and White House grounds to a finish. The girls then ventured into the sacred precincts of the White House and sought Mr. Loob, but could not find him. Learning that he, like the President, was exempt, under the rules of the game, they left, by virtue of the five dollar tag, complimentary tags for both just for luck. Next the bevy of young beauty assailed the Riggs National Bank and held up every one from the president down.

ABUSE IN ISSUING PASSES. More Stringent Regulations Adopted by the Interstate Commission.

WASHINGTON, June 13 .- Additional regulations further restricting the issuance of passes by railroad companies were issued to-day by the Interstate Commerce Com

"Many abuses in the issuance and uses of passes have been discovered," the commission says, in explanation of the new regulations, "which it is desired to correct, and to this end and because of the misinterpretation of the law by the carriers generally the commission at this time makes announcement that it will recommend the indictment and prosecution of all carriers and persons issuing passes to or allowing the use of passes by any persons not in-cluded within the designated classes to whom free transportation may be given by carriers. Among those not included under the provisions referred to are the

The commission also says that it will regard as a breach of the law the issuing of annual passes to those to whom such passes may properly be given unless the names of the persons appear thereon. "John Smith and party," the commission says, is not a sufficient designation. The members of the party must also be named. Also where transportation is issued to an officer or employee of a railroad "and family," the names of the members of the family included must be designated. The new regulation also enjoins carriers from destroying tion also enjoins carriers from destroying records or memorands touching the issu-ance of passes, and the passes themselves after their use must be kept by the carrier for a period of not less than five years.

The Report That He Is Guarded by Police and Detectives Is Denied.

ALBANY, June 13 .- Gov. Hughes's trip to Hudson to-day, which was taken as the guest of the Hon. Simon W. Rosendale, nember of the State Board of Charities, in Mr. Rosendale's automobile for the purpose of making an inspection of the State Training School for Girls, gave rise to sensational rumors that it had been necessary to take extra precautions to guard him through Albany streets because of threatening letters which the Governor is alleged to have received recently from disappointed friends of racing. Robert K. Fuller, secretary to the Governor, declared to-night that the statements made were surprising to him, as he knew of no cocasion for detectives guarding the Governor at this time. Crank letters, he said, had been less in number recently and there had been no letter received with threats to indicate that the writer contemplated doing the Governor bodily harm.

A local morning newspaper gave currency to a report that the Governor's departure from the Executive Mansion was guarded by a cordon of police and that two detectives rode with him in the automobile, but the only apparent foundation for the story lay in the fact that two local detectives him through Albany streets because of in the fact that two local detective were on hand to witness the Governor's departure. There had been so much criti-cism of the local detective force in certain cism of the local detective force in certain publications for not having guarded the sick Senator Foelker on Thursday last that orders had been given to pay more attention to such matters and this accounted for the presence of the police to-day.

Another erroneous statement was published been the presence due.

Another erroneous statement was published here that owing to excitement due to the enforcement of the anti-gambling laws Gov. Hughes had withdrawn his acceptance of an invitation to open the World's Temperanos Congress at Saratoga on Monday. Gov. Hughes, as a matter of fact, had never accepted the invitation to address the congress event, conditionally address the congress except conditionally and he has to be in Albany on Monday on account of a hearing before him at the Executive Chamber on the mercantile inspection bill, which was passed at the extra session of the Legislature.

ARIONS AT THE WHITE HOUSE. Brooklyn Singers Entertain a Party by Singing Several Numbers.

WASHINGTON, June 13 .- For half an hour this afternoon, from 2:30 to 3 o'clock, President and Mrs. Roosevelt and a party of about fifty friends, including members of the Cabinet and their wives, listened to the winners of the first prize given by Kaiser Wilhelm last year at the National Saengerbund. The singers, the Arions of Brooklyn, consisting of about seventy-five trained voices, sang several numbers, most of them voices, sang several numbers, most of them in German, with one or two American melodies interspersed. The programme was in charge of Arthur Classon, director of the society. The Presidential party considered the programme superior to anything of the kind ever rendered at the White House. The Arions will leave the 27th instant for a trip abroad, where they will sing for the imperial families of a number of countries, including Emperor William.

NO THREATS TO HARM HUGHES. FRIGHT OF ISOBEL'S BURGLARS. Or What a Pitteburg Young Weman Can De With a Few Firecrackers.

PITTSBURG, June 13 .- Pittsburg society in spasms to-day over the actions of Miss Isobel Pontefragt, one of the richest of Pittsburg's many rich, young unmarried women, who at an early hour this morning found three burglars at work in her mother's summer home at Sewickley Heights. The society lioness became very busy. The society lioness became very busy. The burglars may have thought that a squad of cavalry had attacked them in the Pontefract mansion, but it was not so. It was only Isobel in her nightie with a few bunches of firecrackers.

Miss Fontefract some time ago made a reputation for nerve when she broke her engagement with the rich Edward Cudahy, Jr., of Chicago and answered no questions.

It appears that there are only two things in the world that Miss Pontefract fears, a burglar and a pistol. Some time ago when there were numerous burglaries in the fashionable Sewickley Heights colony Miss Pontefract purchased a dozen bunches of common firecrackers, amouncing that she wanted them as protection against burglars.

About 2 o'clock this morning Miss Ponte-fract located three burglars downstairs. She found that they had packed up everything worth stealing and were enjoying a lunch in the kitchen before leaving. She lighted two bunches of firecrackers and dropped them to the first floor hall.

The burglars didn't wait for their hats. One dropped his revolver as he went out of the back window. All the silver and other plunder packed up ready to be carried away was saved.

ACQUITTED OF CAPITOL GRAFT. Architect Huston and Congressman Cassel Not Guilty-Many Other Counts.

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 13.-Architect Joseph M. Huston and Congressman H. Burd Cassel, charged with conspiring with ex-Auditor-General William P. Snyder. former State Treasurer William L. Mathues and former Superintendent of Public Grounds and Buildings James M. Shumaker to defraud the State in connection with the building and furnishing of the new Capitol, were acquitted to-day. Judge Kunkel in his charge had directed the jury to acquit Snyder, Mathues and Shumaker and that order was complied with on the very first ballot of the jurors at noon yesterday. The first ballot on Huston and Cassel resulted 9 to 3 for acquittal, and it was not until 2:30 o'clock this morning that the last of the three original advocates of conviction gave in and the tenth ballot showed all for acquittal.

The verdict also constitutes an acquittal for Travelling Auditor Frank Irvine, who was a defendant in this case, but was granted a severance when it became known that his mind was affected. Had any of the others been convicted Irvine would have been tried later, but as all were acquitted and Irvine was involved in the measuring of the furniture in this indictment alone, three remains no one with whom he could have conspired, and the case against him

There remain to be tried thirty-one in dictments against Architect Huston, seven dictments against Architect Huston, seventeen indictments against Cassel, twenty-eight against Snyder, twenty-eight against Mathues and twenty-nine against Shumaker. While not all of these will be tried, it was stated to-day that the Commonwealth will proceed with the prosecutions. Gov. Stuart, it is understood, is determined that the prosecutions shall be pushed vigorously, and Attorney-General Todd, Special Counsel Scarlet and Deputy Attorney-General Cunningham are in thorough accord with the idea.

It is understood that after short vacations counsel for the Commonwealth will begin counsel for the Commonwealth will begin preparations for resuming the trials next
